4. Ranking criteria

4.1. Regarding the applications submitted under paragraphs a), b), c) and e) of number 2.1:

The classification to be attributed to the candidates, for ranking purposes, translates into an entire numerical scale from 0 to 200, according to the following expression:

$$\text{Classification} = [0.3 \times \text{affinity} + 0.4 \times \text{nature} + 0.3 \times (\text{average course} + \text{bonus}) / 200] \times 200.$$

Where:

Affinity is the affinity between the 1st cycle course they have and the course they are applying for, expressed on a scale [0.1];

Nature is the nature of the course and educational establishment in which approval in the 1st cycle was obtained, expressed on a scale [0.1];

Course average is the final course average on the [0.200] scale;

Bonus is a bonus of up to 50 points to be awarded if the candidate is considered to have a relevant scientific or professional curriculum.

4.2. Regarding the applications submitted under paragraph d) of number 2.1:

The classification to be awarded to the candidates, for ranking purposes, translates into an entire numerical scale from 0 to 200 and evaluates the academic, scientific and/or professional curriculum of the candidate, according to the following expression:

$$\text{Classification} = 0.2 \times \text{school curriculum} + 0.4 \times \text{scientific curriculum} + 0.4 \times \text{professional curriculum}.$$

Where:

School curriculum considers the candidate's academic background (academic qualifications held);

Scientific curriculum considers the candidate's participation in congresses, seminars, projects and technical studies, as well as the technical-scientific production (e.g. articles, books), awards and similar elements, in a scientific area relevant to the study cycle in question;

Professional curriculum considers the candidate's training and professional activity, in an area relevant to the study cycle in question.

In the event that the jury determines that an interview should be conducted with the candidates, the classification to be awarded, for ranking purposes, translates into an entire numerical scale from 0 to 200, evaluates the candidate's academic, scientific and/or professional curriculum and the respective interview and is calculated from the following formula:

$$\text{Classification} = 0.12 \times \text{academic curriculum} + 0.24 \times \text{scientific curriculum} + 0.24 \times \text{professional curriculum} + 0.40 \times \text{interview}$$

Where:

School curriculum, scientific curriculum and professional curriculum weigh in the terms mentioned above.

Interview, classified on a whole numerical scale from 0 to 200, evaluates the following items: ability to express, critical sense, motivation and sense of responsibility, according to the following:

Ability to express itself – Measures the current of thought manifested through oral/written language, its fluency, transparency of ideas and logical sequence of reasoning;

Critical sense – Appreciates the innovative nature of the options taken and their reasoning, as well as the ability to argue in hypothetical or real scenarios;

Motivation and sense of responsibility – Evaluates the nature, intensity and permanence of motivations, interests and tastes.

4.3. Tiebreaker: Older age.

4.4. After applying the formula in points 4.1. and 4.2.:

Candidates who obtain a classification lower than 95 points, on the entire numerical scale from 0 to 200, will be automatically excluded.

In the case of holding a foreign qualification, the candidate must instruct the application with an official statement issued by the higher education institution where he/she completed the academic degree, which includes the academic degree, the respective final classification and the evaluation scale used. Failure to prove the final classification of the academic degree, under the terms referred to, determines the attribution of the final classification of 100 points on a scale of 0 to 200. In the case of training carried out at IPLeiria, students are exempt from presenting the document referred to in this paragraph.

5.4. Candidates who are not placed due to lack of vacancy may, through the application platform, request the transition of their application to the next phase, if any, at no additional cost, as long as it remains unchanged.

5.5. Candidates who are not placed due to lack of vacancy may be called to enrol, at the stage in which they apply, if there is a vacancy later.

When the documents presented do not include an electronic authentication code that allows their confirmation, and in the case of qualifications obtained abroad, they must be duly authenticated by the official education services of the respective country and recognized by a Portuguese consular authority or apostilled under the Hague Convention.
